

People living in the slums often pay 5-10 times more per liter of water than wealthy people living in the same city.

Water-related diseases reduce school attendance overall by nearly 20%.